For modern churches lovers, we bring you an example that will not leave you indifferent. Radical volumetrics protruding from the walls in an attempt to find the best light to flood the interior chapels.

Well known is the charismatic character of all the Central American countries. Cities where public space is alive and full of social activity, coexist with the most fascinating landscapes. Moneo Brock are aware of it, thus, they impregnate this ecclesiastical building with that festive character. Volumes do not only seek for the best light to brighten the interior spaces -as we mentioned before- but also to generate a full dialogue with the public space outside.

PARISH CHURCH EL SEÑOR DE LA MISERICORDIA – MONTERREY, MEXICO

The church “El Señor de la Misericordia” is located in the center of a new town-like urban development in Monterrey, Mexico, surrounded by an impressive mountain landscape. The most important factor in the siting and orientation of the church is its relationship to the largest open space of the development, a verdant plaza. Its main entry opens right onto the plaza, and with an unobstructed width of 11.5 meters (38 feet), this opening a...read more
